Company Profile:

The Daniels company was incorporated in the USA in 1956, making it one of the oldest companies in the field of coal preparation and coal handling, and is one of the most experienced companies engaged in the business to design and build coal preparation plants & material handling systems in varying capacities, the first of which was designed and built in the late 1950's. The Daniels Company takes projects from pre-feasibility stage through engineering & design, procurement, construction, commissioning and start up. The Daniels Company also designs and manufactures the Daniels Heavy Medium Vessel, the first one being manufactured in 1954. The Daniels Company is often asked by its existing clients to upgrade their existing plants to increase capacity and/or optimize process efficiency and also provide post startup assistance to operate the facilities.
